

About Dr. Ray Mcclanahan

Long Version

Dr. Ray McClanahan's practice, Northwest Foot & Ankle clinic in Portland, Oregon, allows him to care for those who find their highest joy when in motion. In his 21 years as a podiatrist, Dr. Ray has learned that most foot problems can be corrected by restoring natural foot function. He is also the inventor of Correct Toes.

Dr. McClanahan developed Correct Toes to help his patients combat and prevent common foot problems, including bunions, hammertoes, and plantar fasciitis. His approach to foot health developed through many years of clinical practice, extensive literature research, and through his experience in West Africa observing the local barefoot population.

Dr. McClanahan helps patients address the underlying cause of their foot problems by providing education and empowering them with the tools to rehabilitate their feet and toes to function optimally, the way nature intended. A compassionate physician, Dr. McClanahan's professional goal is to provide quality natural foot health services with an emphasis on sports medicine, preventative and conservative options, as well as education on proper footwear.

Short Version

Dr. Ray McClanahan is a sports podiatrist; founder and physician of Northwest Foot & Ankle in Portland, Oregon; and inventor of Correct Toes. He's a former elite cross-country racer and a regular participant in various running events throughout the Pacific Northwest.

Dr. McClanahan's professional goal is to provide quality natural foot health services with an emphasis on sports medicine, preventative and conservative options, as well as education on proper footwear.